Proeleven Scouting: Renewing the Year, Strengthening the Vision

The year 2026 opens before us with everything that each new cycle inevitably brings: renewed expectations, strengthened ambitions, and challenges worthy of the path we intend to continue building. For Proeleven, this will not be just another year; it will be a pivotal one, aimed at consolidating and elevating our standards of quality, service, and impact within the world of football.

We enter 2026 with the firm belief that the future belongs to those who work with rigor, discipline, and passion. It is precisely with this mindset that we intend to transform this year into a period of strong growth, the development of new ideas, and the maturation of the new departments and business areas we have been creating—reinforcing our ability to support players, coaches, clubs, and partners at every stage of their journey.

Proeleven continues to establish itself as a strategic partner within the industry. An agency that actively contributes to the development of the market, collaborates with clubs across multiple countries, and views football as an ecosystem of opportunities that must be identified, prepared, and maximized. Our role goes beyond intermediation. We seek to add value, knowledge, structure, methodology, and long-term vision.

The Proeleven Scouting magazine was born precisely with this purpose: to showcase talent. Talent expressed through performance, competitive mindset, capacity for development, and the potential to reach the next level.

Vitor Gonçalves
Chief Financial Officer

In this second edition, we once again present a selection of players who, for different reasons, stand out in today's landscape—players with identity, distinctive profiles, and room for progression, with whom we aim to continue creating meaningful career opportunities.

We therefore present another edition, hoping you will explore it, analyze it, and enjoy the content we have prepared. May this magazine also serve as an invitation to discover the next success stories that will undoubtedly continue to emerge.

Composure, Game Reading and Maturity at the Heart of Sporting CP's Defence

Developed at Sporting CP's academy, Eduardo Quaresma – a centre-back who can also operate as a right-back – represents a successful transition from youth football to the senior level. Having evolved under different tactical models, the Portuguese defender and U21 international has gradually demonstrated all the attributes that, from an early stage, placed him among the top prospects of his generation.

Development, Debut and Consolidation in Professional Football

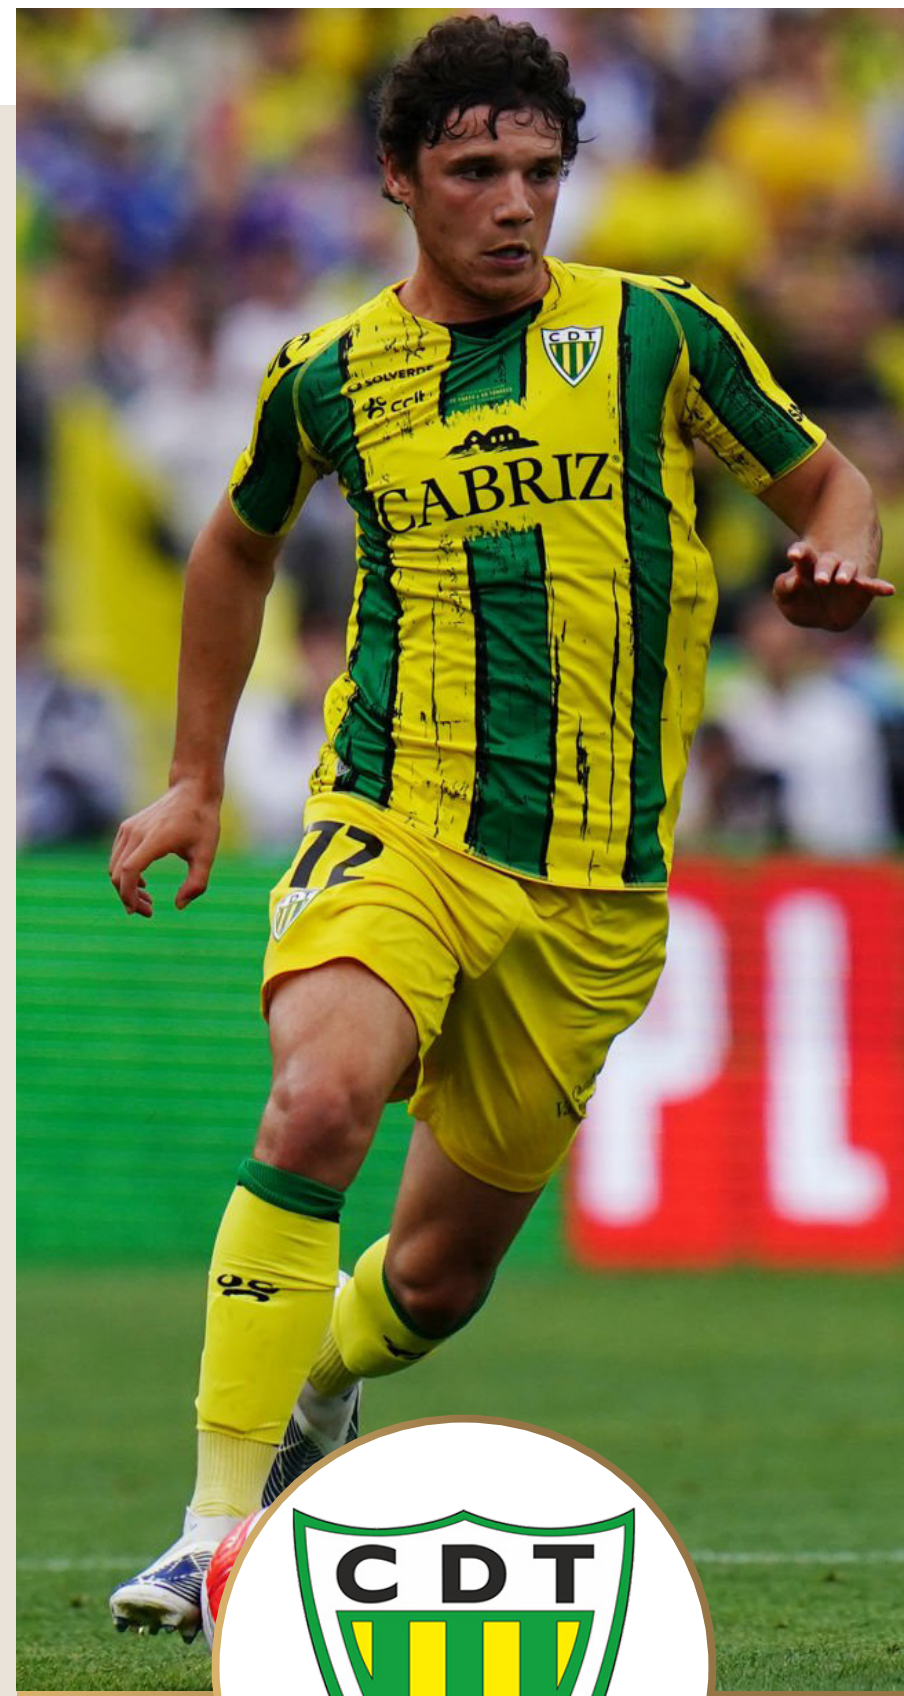

Born in Barreiro, Eduardo Quaresma joined Sporting CP's academy at a young age, standing out early for his elegance on the ball and maturity in decision-making.

His pathway was marked by a rapid progression through the youth ranks, reaching Sporting CP's first team as a teenager during the 2019/20 season.

After a season of limited involvement in 2020/21, loan spells at CD Tondela and TSG Hoffenheim followed, contributing significantly to his development and adaptation to different competitive environments.

His time in the Bundesliga, in particular, reinforced his aggression in duels and assertiveness in defensive actions, completing the profile of a defender capable of performing at high tempo and under constant pressure.

His return to Alvalade in the 2023/24 season has been characterised by consistency and confidence. Despite strong competition in his position, Eduardo Quaresma re-integrated into the first-team squad, assuming the role of a reliable option, ready to respond to the team's demands.

Decision-Making in Possession and Quality in the First Phase of Build-Up

In the current season, he has featured in 15 matches (1080 minutes), a sufficient sample to confirm what had already been evident in previous seasons: a low-profile player with above-average technical quality and positional awareness, making him a safe option in any competitive context.

Eduardo Quaresma's game fits perfectly into Sporting CP's build-up dynamics. He is a centre-back with a strong understanding of the game in possession, averaging 71.1 passes per match with a 95% accuracy rate — figures that reflect clarity of execution and a level of composure rarely seen in a player of his age.

SUCCESSFUL
PER GAME

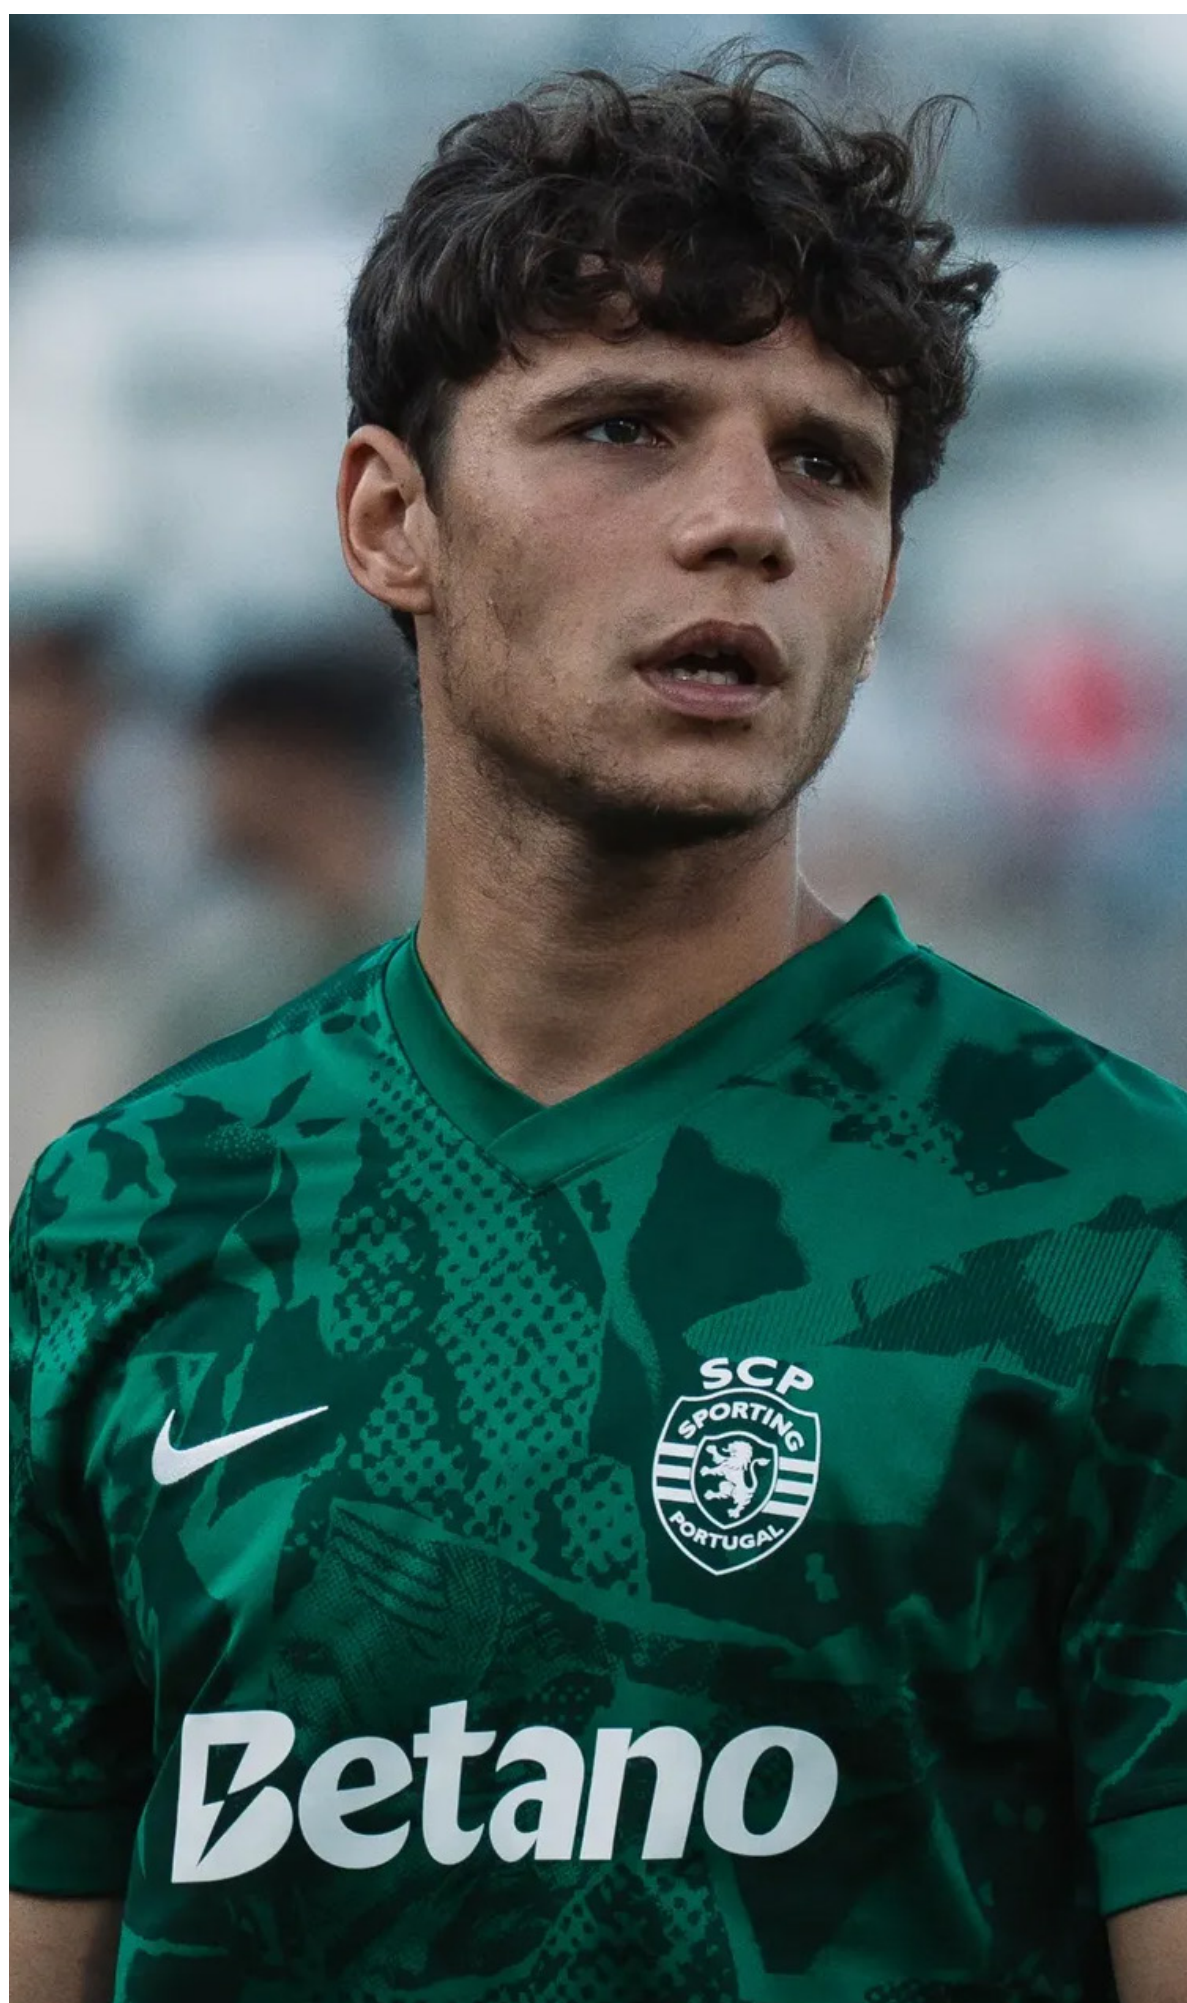

With a clean first touch and excellent pressure recognition, he is able to find vertical solutions, accelerate central build-up phases and retain possession with intelligence. When required, he carries the ball forward, averaging 0.8 dribbles per game with a 75% success rate, drawing opponents out of position and creating space for teammates.

This confidence in possession, combined with consistently balanced body positioning and accurate long passing, makes Eduardo Quaresma a key player for dominant teams that seek to build from the back under pressure.

Defensive Efficiency and Advanced Positional Awareness

Out of possession, Eduardo Quaresma displays the qualities most valued by coaches in a defender: timing, composure and game reading. Averaging 15 duels per game, with a 57% success rate, the centre-back shows controlled aggression and precision in his interventions, rarely resorting to fouls.

In aerial situations, he contests 3.6 duels per match and maintains a solid presence in defensive set-pieces. In addition, he averages 3 interceptions and 5 recoveries per game, indicators of constant positional awareness and strong anticipation of opponents' movements. Physically, he combines short-distance speed and explosiveness with good acceleration, allowing him to operate in high defensive lines and protect depth effectively.

His tactical behaviour is, above all, disciplined. He adjusts his body positioning before contact, manages distances accurately and remains calm even in situations of greater exposure.

Competitive Profile and Elite-Level Growth Potential

Competitive and focused, Eduardo Quaresma combines emotional intelligence with strong collective commitment. He is communicative on the pitch, helps organise the defensive line and displays a resilient, hard-working mentality — qualities further strengthened by his experiences away from Alvalade.

From a technical perspective, he embodies the modern centre-back profile: strong in tackling, reliable in possession and quick in defensive reactions. Mentally, he stands out for his composure under pressure and confidence in decision-making.

Sporting CP view him as a fully developed academy product, a player prepared to sustain the tactical identity of the team led by head coach Rui Borges, while also representing an asset with room to grow in a European context. His recent evolution confirms that early promise has given way to a solid and mature defender, with all the conditions required to establish himself at elite level.

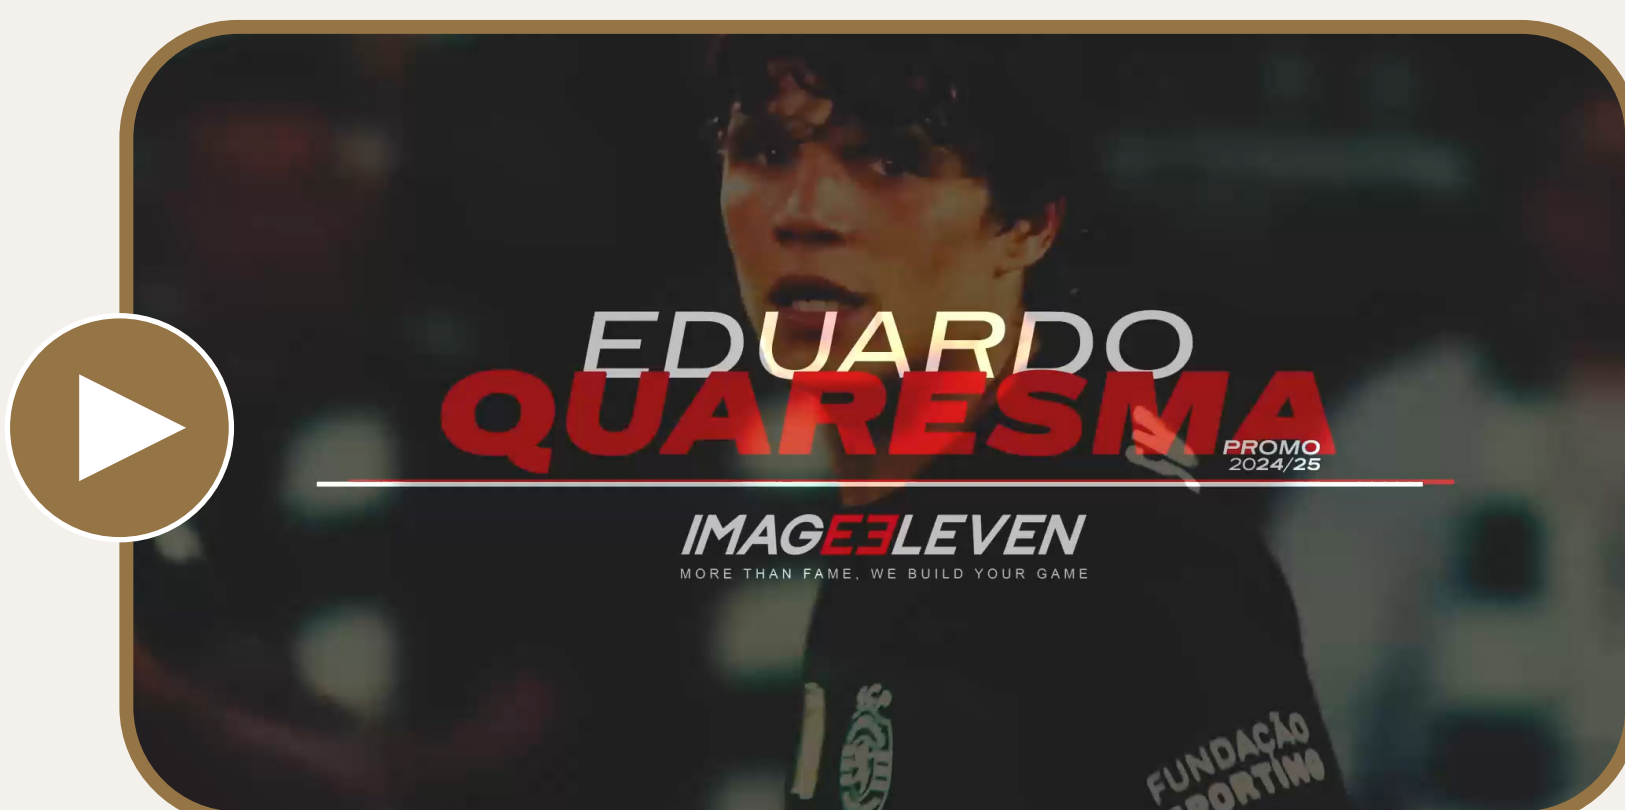

At present, Eduardo Quaresma is a defender ready to meet the demands of the present and build the future with authority, symbolising the solidity and elegance of the new generation of centre-backs developed in Alcochete.

Tiago Tomás has been establishing himself in the Bundesliga as a forward defined by mobility, intensity and offensive versatility.

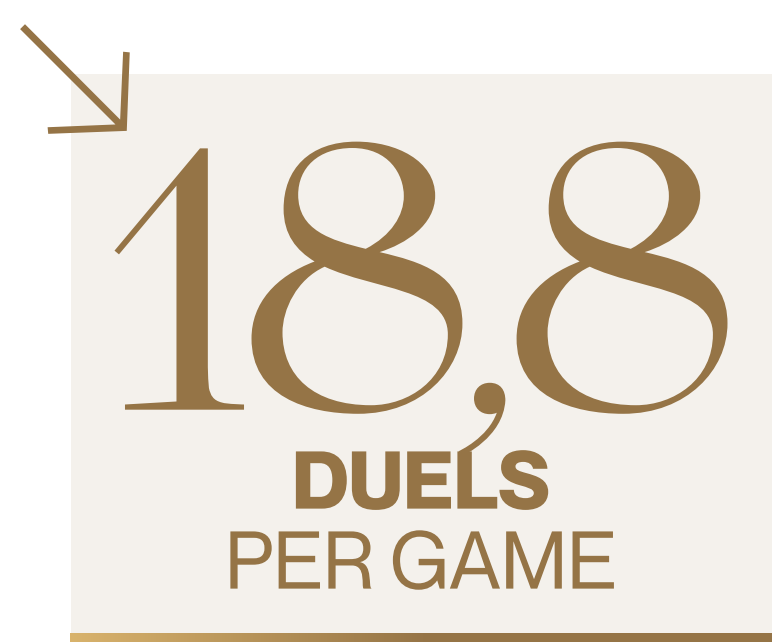

With 20 appearances (1066 minutes) for VfB Stuttgart, the Portuguese U21 international shows clear development in decision-making and in the way he interprets space between the lines.

Averaging 23.9 passes per game with an 78% completion rate, alongside 4 dribbles per match at a 62% success rate, Tiago Tomás is a forward who constantly looks to create imbalance. Capable of attacking depth and creating advantages in wide areas, he stands out for his aggression both in and out of possession, demonstrating strong game reading in moments of penetration. He also records 2.6 shots per game and an expected goals (xG) value of 0.34, figures that confirm his regular presence in finishing zones and his ability to generate threat.

In duels, he is involved in an average of 18.8 per match, reflecting his competitiveness and work rate, even when facing physically dominant centre-backs. From a defensive perspective, he contributes with 2.5 ball recoveries and 1.3 interceptions per game, highlighting his commitment in counter-pressing situations and his capacity to apply high pressure.

With 4 goals already scored this season, Tiago Tomás continues to consolidate the profile of a modern forward — mobile, dynamic and fully committed to collective work. His intensity and ability to break defensive lines make him a valuable asset in game models that prioritise fast attacks and highly vertical transitions.

Aurélio Buta is a right-back with strong attacking intent and physical consistency, whose game is characterised by verticality, power and execution quality.

Despite having played only 153 minutes across 5 matches this season for Eintracht Frankfurt, performance indicators point to an influential player who delivers high output whenever called upon.

Averaging 36.5 passes per game with an 81% accuracy rate and 0.47 dribbles per match at a 100% success rate, Aurélio Buta is a full-back who provides width and depth down the right flank. He is effective in ball carrying, looking to accelerate the game and create imbalance through progression. In addition, his technical and physical profile allows him to be a constant threat in offensive transitions.

Defensively, he averages 16.1 duels per game, reflecting aggression and competitive commitment. In aerial duels, he records 0.95 per match, while also contributing 0.95 interceptions and 1.26 ball recoveries per game, highlighting solid defensive awareness and availability for pressing.

Aurélio Buta is therefore a player with clear impact on the right side of the German side, ensuring offensive presence, defensive intensity and physical reliability. His playing style combines energy with discernment, making him a full-back well suited to high-demand, high-tempo competitive environments.

Kim Ji-Soo, a South Korean centre-back on loan from Brentford FC to 1. FC KAISERSLAUTERN, has been one of the positive surprises of the 2. Bundesliga. Across 782 minutes played over 11 matches, the young defender has demonstrated tactical maturity, defensive consistency and an excellent adaptation to European football.

Averaging 38.7 passes per game with an 88% completion rate, Kim Ji-Soo shows confidence in build-up play and accuracy in short and medium-range passing. Despite a more conservative profile, he is capable of switching play with quality and contributing to build-up under pressure. He also records 0.32 dribbles per match with a 67% success rate, highlighting composure and technical security in moments of offensive progression.

Defensively, he stands out for his efficiency in duels: 10.2 per game (59% won) and 3.1 aerial duels per match (60% won). He further adds 4.7 interceptions and 9 recoveries per game, figures that reflect excellent game reading and a strong ability to anticipate opponents' actions. His balanced positioning and precise timing of interventions further reinforce his reliability.

In offensive situations, he has already scored 1 goal and shows presence in attacking set-pieces, using his height and strong timing when attacking the ball. Kim Ji-Soo combines Asian composure and tactical discipline with a European competitive mentality, presenting himself as a centre-back with a secure future and the potential to integrate Brentford FC's first-team squad in the short term and establish himself in the Premier League.

A striker with a consolidated international career, Gonçalo Paciência has brought to Brazilian football a profile defined by experience, game intelligence and a strong sense of opportunity — characteristics that have consistently shaped his professional pathway.

Throughout his career, Gonçalo Paciência has stood out for his ability to interpret moments in the final third, his efficiency in tight spaces and his refined positional awareness inside the penalty area. In the current context, he continues to show consistency in occupying finishing zones, supported by sharp attacking awareness and a regular presence in high-risk areas.

He is a forward comfortable in physical confrontation, with significant involvement in duels, both in direct contact and aerial situations. His ability to pin centre-backs and provide reliable hold-up play has consistently facilitated Sport Recife's progression and allowed second-line players to arrive in creative and finishing areas.

Beyond statistics, Gonçalo Paciência distinguishes himself through tactical and emotional maturity. The experience accumulated in highly demanding leagues such as La Liga and the Bundesliga has provided him with deep game understanding and a strong competitive culture. At Sport Recife, this background has translated into an influential on-pitch presence, establishing him as a complete forward capable of combining commitment, judgement and efficiency in service of the team.

At 20 years of age, Afonso Moreira is one of the most promising Portuguese players currently developing abroad. Transferred to Olympique Lyon at the start of the season, the left winger has been showcasing the qualities that have defined him since his time at Sporting CP's academy: pace, creativity and one-on-one ability. Across 24 matches and 1,121 minutes split between Olympique Lyon and Portugal's U20 and U21 national teams, he has recorded 5 goals and 6 assists, demonstrating immediate impact.

Averaging 30 passes per game with a 77.4% completion rate, Afonso Moreira shows objectivity and sound decision-making in the final action. However, his greatest strength lies in his dribbling ability: 5.8 actions per game with a 54% success rate, an impressive volume that reflects his natural inclination for individual duels and for creating superiority in the final third. He also averages 2.5 shots per game and an expected goals (xG) value of 0.27, underlining his attacking intent and consistent arrival in the opposition box.

Afonso Moreira represents the prototype of the modern winger: fast, vertical, mobile, intense and technically gifted, while also tactically disciplined. His spell in France has allowed him to mature in a demanding environment and improve consistency in his decision-making. In the medium term, he possesses the attributes to establish himself in a top European league, through his ability to unbalance defences, create chances and decide matches.

A defensive midfielder, Al Musrati has begun his SERIE A journey with the solidity and composure that made him a key figure in recent seasons in France, Turkey and Portugal.

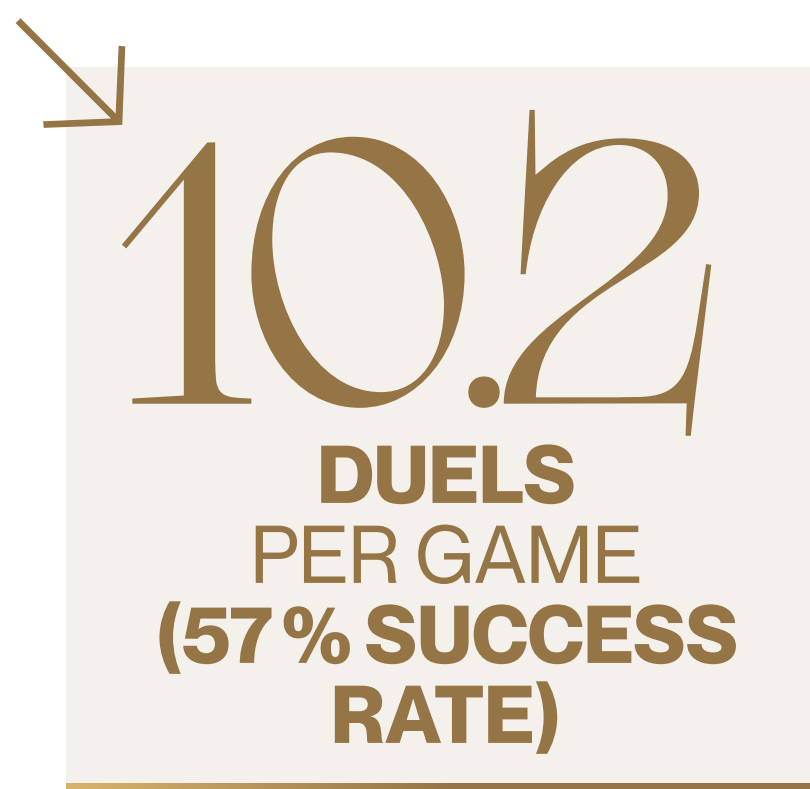

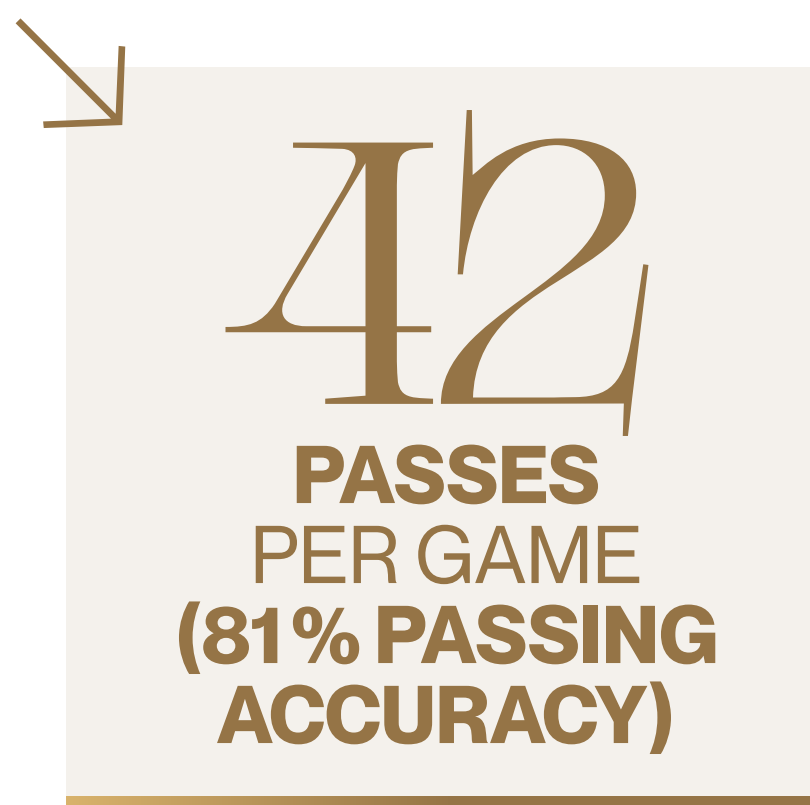

With 524 minutes played across 9 matches for Hellas Verona FC, the Libyan international displays the defining traits of his game: tactical intelligence, positional awareness and the ability to control the tempo.

Averaging 42 passes per game with an 81% completion rate, Musrati shows a strong capacity to ensure secure circulation and link play between sectors, primarily favouring short passing and possession control. He asserts himself in defensive organisation and ball recovery phases, providing structure and balance to the team.

He records 10.2 duels per game, winning 57%, alongside 3.2 aerial duels per match with a 60% success rate — figures that highlight his physical presence and precise timing in interventions. He also averages 4.7 interceptions and 10 recoveries per game, underlining his game reading and ability to cut passing lanes effectively.

At 29 years of age, Al Musrati is a controlling and intelligent midfielder with strong personality and exceptional tactical understanding, capable of providing balance, consistency, security and composure in any structure and competitive context.

Josué demonstrates that experience and game understanding remain decisive assets in modern football. Across 41 matches (3,203 minutes) for Coritiba FC, he recorded 7 goals and 7 assists, playing a key role in the campaign that culminated in the club winning the Brazilian Série B title.

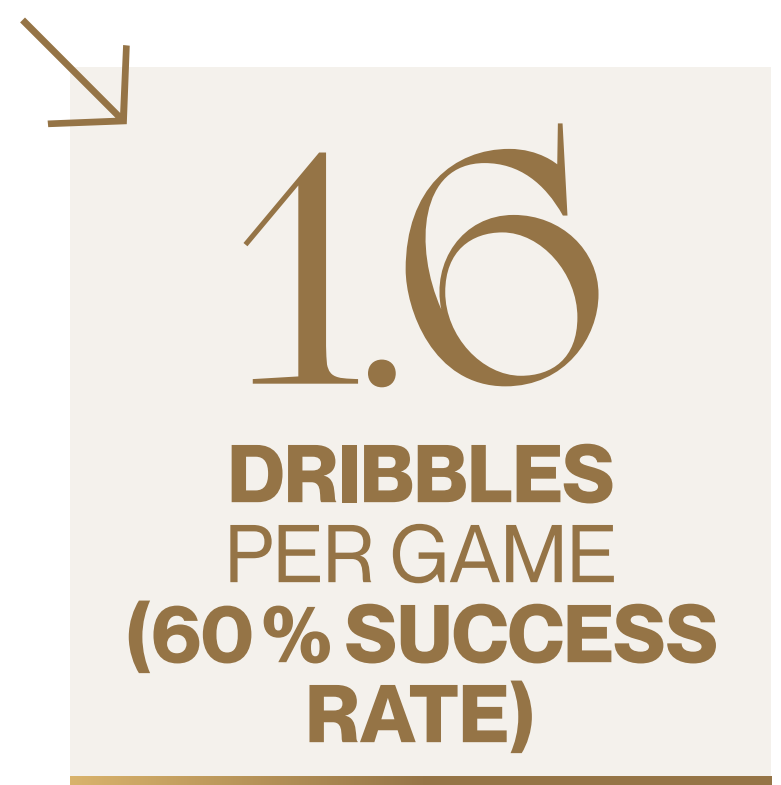

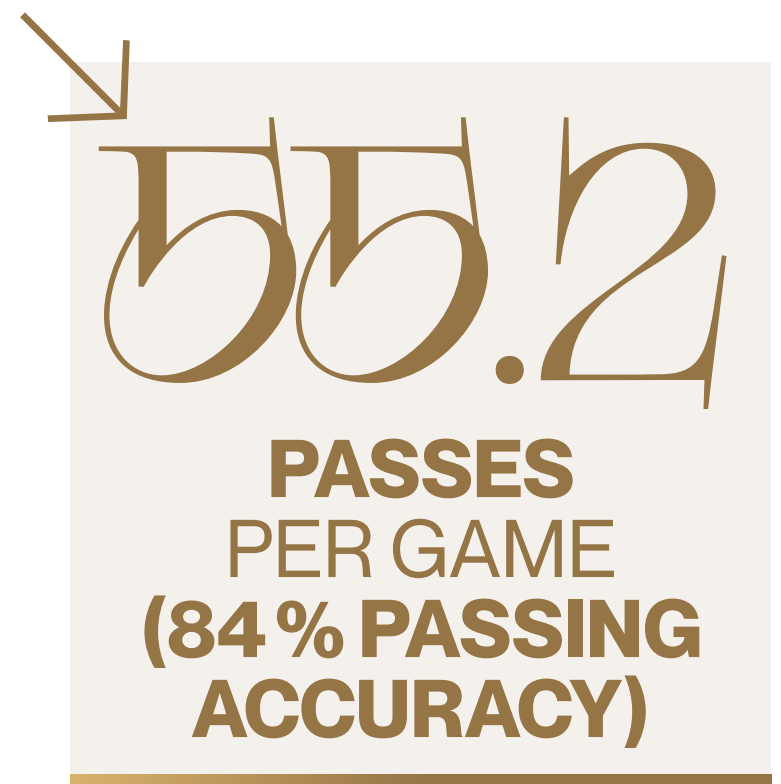

He established himself as one of the competition's standout performers, being voted the club's Player of the Season and receiving several individual awards, including Best Player of the Championship.

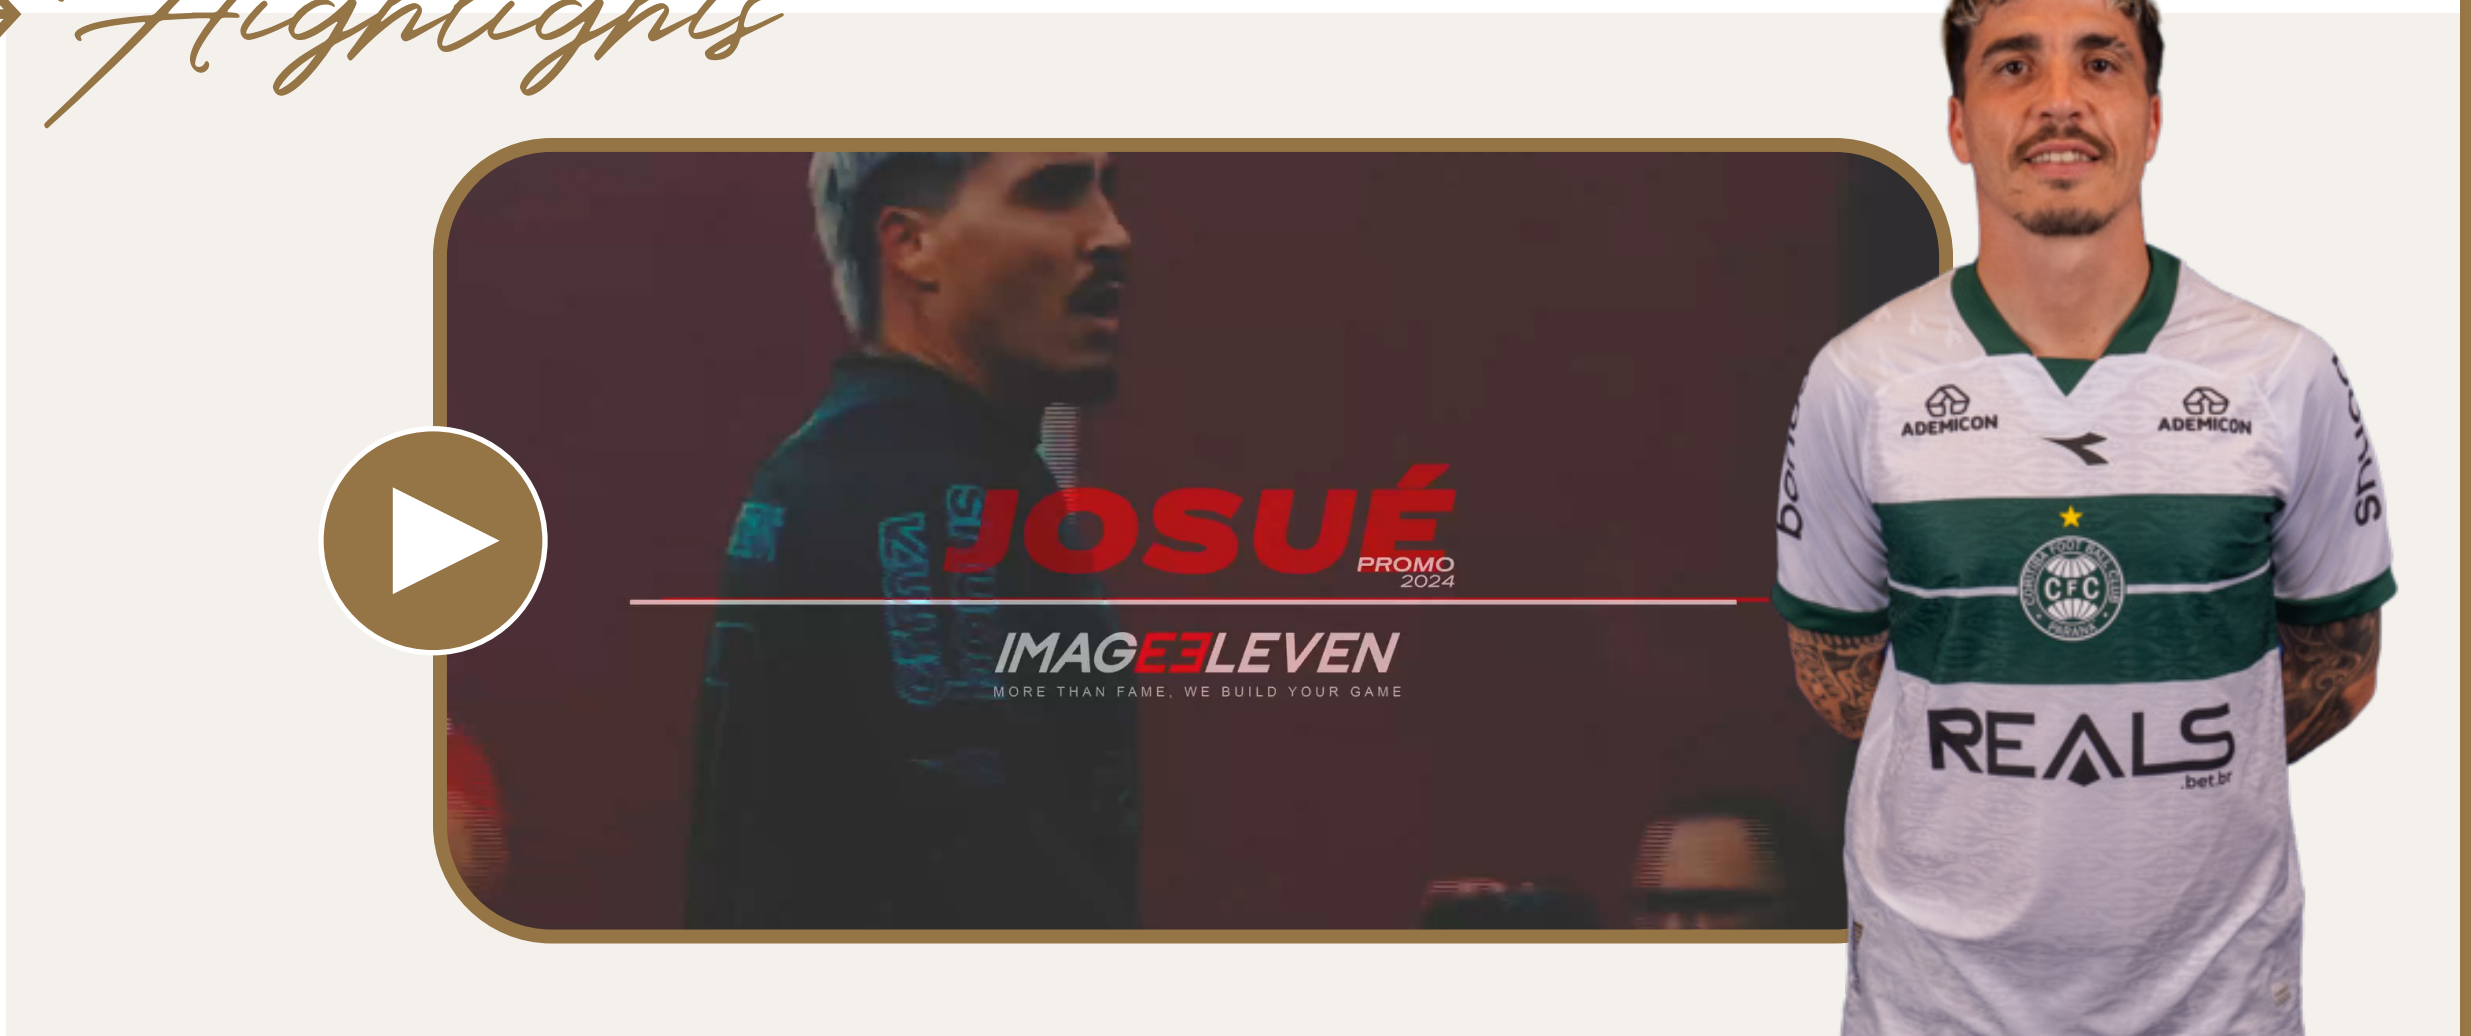

Averaging 55.2 passes per game with an 84% completion rate, the Portuguese international is the brain of the midfield: he controls tempo, identifies pathways to break down opponents and accelerates play at the right moments. His refined first touch and vision allow him to find interior passing lanes with ease, unlocking situations naturally. He also averages 1.6 dribbles per game with a 60% success rate, retaining the ability to create imbalance in the final third.

His average of 1.6 shots per game and an expected goals (xG) value of 0.14 highlight his consistent presence in finishing zones, whether through long-range efforts or late arrivals into the box. Defensively, he records 13 duels per game and 3 recoveries, demonstrating tactical commitment and willingness to contribute out of possession.

Above all, Josué is a cerebral player, capable of thinking the game and making others play. His reading of play and positional awareness compensate for any decline in physical speed. At Coritiba FC, he has become a link between experience and creativity, serving as a benchmark for professionalism and competitive longevity in a highly demanding league.

Patryk Paryzek is a young centre-forward currently playing for MKS Pogoń Szczecin, a club competing in the top tier of Polish football. In the current season, the Polish U19 international has made only two official appearances, in a context of reduced playing time compared to the previous campaign, when he accumulated more minutes and competitive rhythm. Even so, he remains a valid option in the attacking department, capable of fulfilling different roles depending on the team's game model.

The 19-year-old striker stands out for his mobility and for the way he offers passing lanes to his teammates. He shows a good understanding of space, alternating between supporting movements and runs in behind, and demonstrates willingness to contribute in pressing phases and immediate ball recovery. In previous contexts, he has also displayed a predisposition for physical duels and an ability to finish inside the penalty area, attributes that support his profile as a reference centre-forward.

In possession, he tends to favour simple and objective actions, looking to play facing goal whenever possible. He shows sound judgement in short combinations and in linking play with the midfield, contributing to collective balance. Although this season has been marked by limited game time, Patryk Paryzek remains a developing player, with room to consolidate his performances and establish himself within the competitive environment of the Ekstraklasa.

In goal for SC Braga B, João Carvalho has been a symbol of stability and reliability. With 19 appearances (1,710 minutes) this season, the young goalkeeper has demonstrated maturity and security, both with the Braga reserve team and the Portugal U21 national side, having recently taken part in a training camp with the senior national team.

He records an xCG (expected goals conceded) of 0.7 and has already kept 11 clean sheets, four of them at international level, reflecting his sound positioning and strong timing in interventions. He shows confidence when coming off his line, good command of the penalty area and sustained concentration throughout the 90 minutes.

João Carvalho is a goalkeeper who actively participates in the attacking phase, displaying quality in short and medium-range distribution, fitting well into game models that prioritise build-up from the back. Tactically disciplined and emotionally balanced, he provides calmness to the team and rarely commits errors under pressure.

At 21 years of age and already with international experience on his résumé, João Carvalho demonstrates — even at this developmental stage — attributes associated with high-level goalkeepers: secure, composed and competitive, ready for more demanding challenges.

Playing for Sporting CP B, left-back Rodrigo Dias has made 15 appearances (913 minutes) and provided one assist this season, demonstrating a profile that combines defensive solidity with the physical availability to provide depth down the flank.

Averaging 38.2 passes per game with an 81% completion rate, the Portuguese U20 international is composed and clear in his actions in possession. He prioritises short circulation and progressive passing, looking to connect the defensive line with the midfield in a fluid manner. He also records 1.6 dribbles per game, highlighting confidence in ball carrying in advanced areas and the ability to create imbalance through progression. With a strong emphasis on maintaining balance, he reads space effectively and gains ground consistently along the left flank.

Rodrigo Dias displays positive aggression and strength in direct confrontations, posting strong defensive indicators: 17.2 duels contested per game (58% won) and 3.2 aerial duels. He also demonstrates sound positional awareness, attention to interior movements and quick reactions in defensive transitions, reflected in his averages of 3.2 interceptions and 8 recoveries per match. His defensive concentration allows him to tuck inside effectively, keeping the defensive line compact and well-coordinated.

Competitive commitment and consistent performances are defining traits of Rodrigo Dias, reflecting a player with strong game understanding and pragmatic execution. At just 20 years of age, he already shows a level of maturity and consistency that positions him as one of the most promising full-backs in Liga Portugal 2.

Representing SD Eibar, Leonardo Buta has accumulated 1,020 minutes across 15 appearances in the 2025/26 season, showing a clear progression in competitive maturity and consistency in both his defensive and offensive actions.

In possession, the 23-year-old left-back displays composure and sound judgement, averaging 31.2 passes per game with a 78% completion rate. These figures reflect a strong involvement in the build-up phase and a clear understanding of possession moments. His 2.3 dribbles per game further underline his technical confidence and ability to create advantages through ball carrying.

Distinguished by the intensity he brings to each action, the Portuguese U21 international contests an average of 16.4 duels per match (49% won) and wins nearly half of his aerial duels, numbers that indicate a balanced approach between aggression and control. His averages of 3.4 interceptions and 8 recoveries per game confirm him as an attentive, disciplined and committed full-back during defensive transitions.

Physically resilient and with good acceleration, Leonardo Buta shows the capacity to interpret different tactical moments, adjusting his positioning according to the team's block and ensuring width and depth on the left flank at the appropriate moments. He possesses the attributes required to meet the demands of Spanish football and to continue his development in increasingly competitive contexts.

CENTRAL MIDFIELDER

 ➤ CLUB FC AROUCA LIGA PORTUGAL	 ➤ BIRTHDAY 12 OCTOBER 2000	 ➤ NATIONALITY PORTUGUESE

Pedro Santos has been steadily establishing himself as one of FC Arouca's most consistent and reliable midfielders. Across 11 appearances, totalling 715 minutes this season, he has demonstrated tactical maturity, quality in ball circulation and impressive technical efficiency, positioning himself as an important component within the team's structure.

Averaging 62 passes per game with an 91% completion rate, the Portuguese attacking midfielder is defined by sound judgement in possession, ensuring stable ball retention, security in build-up play and a regular presence in advanced areas.

From a defensive standpoint, he records 11.6 duels per game, 1.6 aerial duels, 2.8 interceptions and 9 recoveries, highlighting his commitment and balance in defensive actions. Despite not yet contributing with goals or assists, his influence on FC Arouca's overall control of the game is unquestionable.

Pedro Santos is a midfielder who combines technical quality with positional intelligence in an effective manner. He is a highly reliable player, capable of managing tempo and providing fluency in possession, making him particularly valuable in teams with dominant game models.

DIOGO

GOALKEEPER

 CLUB FC PORTO B LIGA PORTUGAL 2	 BIRTHDAY 17 FEBRUARY 2005	 NATIONALITY PORTUGUESE
---	---	--

At 20 years of age, Diogo Fernandes, goalkeeper for FC Porto B, has made 9 appearances (810 minutes) and has shown a clear evolution in consistency and composure — fundamental traits in a highly demanding environment such as Liga Portugal 2.

He stands out for his security between the posts and strong game reading, displaying good reflexes and the ability to respond effectively in high-risk situations and finishing actions. His stable level of performance provides confidence to the defensive line.

Diogo Fernandes actively looks to participate in the first phase of build-up and demonstrates calmness under pressure. In addition, the Portuguese U20 international shows strong spatial awareness, coming off his line with conviction to intercept crosses or control depth behind the defence.

Secure, competitive and with clear room for progression, the young goalkeeper possesses the attributes required to establish himself in a senior context of greater responsibility, combining composure, agility and game reading — qualities that already define him as a well-rounded goalkeeper.
